

—McCartney, in McIntyre, p. 203

first thought: oh, it must be one of the old songs...I've just just couldn't figure it out at all, because I'd just woken up. It just sort of kept tumbling out with those chords. I thought: well this is for gotten which one. I said to myself: I wonder what it is, you know.

very nice, but it's a nick [from a nong]. I don't know what it is.

(DONALDSON)

REFLECTION IN ACTION

early in their careers.

• The Beatles immersed themselves deeply in the music of others

• According to Schon...

something which cannot be said in verbal logic.

Spontaneous behaviour based on learned skill expressed

• 'we simply find ourselves doing these things.'

